MAMA University

MAMA was established in 2010 as a Cambodian university with a United Kingdom curriculum. There were 5 founders who envisioned a new university that would meet international standards and be based on the UK educational system. MAMA began operations in December 2010 in a temporary facility in Boeung Keng Kong. It was grounded on several principles: senior managers were to be highly qualified, experienced western administrators with administrative skills and experience in academic affairs; faculty must have terminal degrees from U.K. institutions or other European countries, and teaching experience in European institutions; an undergraduate curriculum that meets U.K. accreditation requirements for a balance between liberal arts education and appropriate coursework for a major; and the recruitment of students who aspire to high levels of achievement.

A Board of Control (BOC) was formed to direct the course of the University and oversee its development. The Board is composed of British educators, executives of higher education institutions in the U.K., and business executives from Cambodia and around the globe. It is dedicated to making MAMA a leading higher education institution in Cambodia, fostering socially responsible behavior, lifelong learning, academic and professional excellence among students; and to
